

Hijacked Japanese Jet Fired On From Ground

SEOUL (UPI)—Fifteen radical Japanese students who hijacked a Japanese airliner with swords and daggers held 100 persons hostage in the locked airliner at Seoul airport tonight and threatened to blow themselves up with bombs if they were not taken to Communist North Korea.

The students seized the plane in Japan and ordered the pilot to fly to North Korea. But the pilot turned back to Seoul when he encountered ground fire over the North. Seoul authorities staged an elaborate ruse to convince the 15 students they were in Pyongyang, but they failed.

"This is Pyongyang and we welcome you," loudspeakers blared as the Japanese Air Lines Boeing 727 with the 15 hijackers, seven crewmen and 93 passengers landed at Seoul. South Korean soldiers in Communist uniforms took up positions alongside the plane but the pirates were not fooled.

Dawn Takeoff
South Korean Defense Minister Chung Nae-huk said the pilot of the Boeing trijet had notified the airport control tower he would take off at dawn for Pyongyang, the capital of North Korea.

The hijackers threatened to blow up the aircraft with bombs they have in case the hijacking fails," the pilot radioed. "Please do not bring people near the aircraft." He said the hijackers indicated they would wait "three or four days" if necessary before blowing up the plane.

Two of the passengers were Americans. They were identified as the Rev. Daniel S. MacDonald, a Roman Catholic priest in Japan, originally from San Francisco, and Herbert Brill, an executive for Pepsi-Cola International, stationed in Japan. His home is Hoboken, N.J.

N.J.
The hoax attempted on the hijackers was so elaborate that girls carrying flowers went out and shouted, "Welcome to Pyongyang."

The elaborate hoax failed and six hours after the plane landed in Seoul the student pirates were finally told by officials that they were in South Korea as they had suspected. Then began the ordeal of trying to free the persons aboard the plane and decide the fate of the hijackers.

Strike

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Efforts to reach a contract settlement covering 450,000 of the nation's truck drivers have produced no outward signs of progress. There was a chance the country could be hit with scattered strikes when the current contract expires at midnight tonight.

Objections Lacking As Council Adopts Budget

It turned out to be a one minute budget hearing Monday night at the Twin Falls City Council meeting and without objection the 1970 budget totaling $3,192,735 was passed.

Mayor Frank Feldtman said, "Although this may seem like quick action to the audience, we have studied this budget since last fall. A lot of work has gone into it."

In the general fund, the budget for the Street Department is nearly doubled and a massive street program this year is planned.

Also, the Police Department budget has been increased from $286,744 to $381,650, allowing department expansion with the hiring of about five new officers and the addition of a new patrol car.

Additional police equipment will also be purchased.

The new budget also includes a five per cent increase to all city employees. The 1969 budget expenditure was $1,394,491 in the general fund, while the 1970 estimate is $1,927,309.

The budget for the Recreation Department and swimming pool is also being increased to allow for an expanded city recreation program.

The total budget reflects the general operating fund and special funds and increases from the 1969 budget are for urban renewal work in the downtown area and the work at Dierke's Lake at Shoshone Falls, in addition to the pay hike for employees.

Actual revenue for 1969 was $2,777,727, and the anticipated expenditure for 1970 is the total budget of $3,192,735 and the Council cannot exceed this amount.

The total budget is within the limitations of House Bill 304, which holds a taxing unit to four per cent budget increase annually. Last year the city had to go beyond the four per cent limit.

Boyd Will Seek State Position

BOISE (UPI)—A Boise attorney and former referee in bankruptcy told a news conference in Boise Monday he is a Democratic candidate for lieutenant governor.

Paul S. Boyd, 62, said he would serve as a "working partner with the governor and the legislature," if elected. He also endorsed the proposed revision of the state constitution upon which the voters will ballot in November.

He said he is in full accord that the governor and lieutenant governor should be elected as a team.

gunfire and turned back but after landing in Seoul the students refused to give up the plane or the passengers. Two passengers were identified as Americans. (UPI telephoto)

Governor, Farmers In Word Battle At Rigby

RIGBY, Idaho (UPI)—Gov. Don Samuelson Monday exchanged some direct words with members of the National Farmers Organization at his "take the government to the people" meeting at Rigby.

But emotions cooled and the meeting ended on a note of harmony, with Samuelson proposing a meeting with growers, shippers and processors within the next 10 days to two weeks. Samuelson at one point accused the NFO of "not living up to the groundrules" established for a recent meeting in his office.

However, NFO members in the audience strongly denied the charge, after which the meeting progressed with no further flareups.

Samuelson said he wasn't "mad at anybody" and realized the farmers "are in bad financial squeeze."

He said he hoped the proposed meeting could accomplish something in arriving at an approach for better potato prices for next season's crop, but added, "I don't know what I can do about your present plight."

Sentence

LONG BINH, Vietnam (UPI)—A military court sentenced Lt. James B. Duffy to six months in prison and fined him $1,500 today after reconsidering a previous decision that would have meant life in prison.

The sentence followed Duffy's conviction Monday on two counts of involuntary manslaughter for permitting his men to kill a Vietnamese prisoner. The decision of the eight-man general court-martial board will be appealed automatically under military law.

Forest Official To Retire

OGDEN (UPI)—After more than 38 years of service, Floyd Iverson, top administrator of the Intermountain Region of the Forest Service, plans to retire in April of this year.

The announcement came from Forest Service chief Edward P. Cliff in Washington, D.C., who also announced that Vernon O. Hamre will succeed Iverson. During his 13 years as head of the Intermountain Region, Iverson has been responsible for management of 18 national forests in Nevada, Utah, southern Idaho and western Wyoming.

The forest veteran began his career in California in 1932, following graduation with a bachelor of science degree in forestry from the University of California.

Iverson has been presented a Superior Service Award from the Secretary of Agriculture and at one time was presented the Utah State University Bridger Award for outstanding achievement in the conservation field.

His successor, Hamre, has been deputy regional forester in the Pacific Northwest Region for one year and is a 1947 graduate of Montana State University.

Replacement Study Of Bridge Is Underway

SHOSHONE — Field work involving seismic surveys of the foundation of the Perrine Memorial Bridge which will provide the basis for replacement of the structure began Monday. Howard Johnson, district engineer, Idaho Department of Highways, announced.

He said the surveys now being made consist of recording the velocity of travel of ground waves resulting from the detonating small explosive charges. Motorists and residents in the area will be hearing these small blasts through about Saturday when this phase of the survey is expected to be completed.

Highway officials said an agreement has now been completed between the Highway Department and the consulting Engineers, Howard, Needles, Tanner and Bergendoff for the bridge replacement study.

Because of the size and complexity of the bridge and the volume of work involved the study was called to insure a final design of the structure that could be completed at an early date and to allow contracting of the replacement work as soon as possible.

Involved in the study are foundation investigations, cost analysis and structure types such as suspension, deck arch, deck truss and orthotropic plate girder bridges.

Awards Go To Three Citizens

By LEE TREMAINE

Times-News Staff Writer
Former Twin Falls Mayor Egon Kroll, O'Leary Junior High School instructor Paul Epperson and Rev. Keith R. Maxwell of the First Methodist Church were presented Distinguished Service Awards by the Twin Falls Jaycees Monday night at the annual awards banquet.

Congressman Orval Hansen, Second District Idaho Representative in Congress, was guest speaker at the affair which drew an overflow crowd to the American Legion Hall, now under management of the Jaycees. He presented a stirring challenge to the Jaycees, and to all citizens, to overcome the perils that threaten this nation and renew the spirit of liberty that gave birth to the American dream.

Ray Rostron, manager of the Twin Falls Chamber of Commerce, served as master of ceremonies. He reviewed the history of the Jaycees and the award banquets, which have honored 82 men and women since 1942 for service to their communities.

Special guests at the banquet were Joe Jensen of Caldwell, president of the Idaho State Jaycees; and his wife Aletha, former Jay-C-Ette president. Other guests who were introduced included past award winners, Doug Vollmer and his wife, DeAnne; H. W. Morgan, Mrs. John Hayes, R. J. Schwendman, U. N. Terry and Mrs. Terry, Morris Roth, I. T. Creed, Mrs. Lionel Dean, W. W. Frantz, Sarren Barry, David Mead, Mrs. Lavern Strong, Dale Patterson and Harold Hove.

Tom Tinker presented the Distinguished Educator award

Mr. Kroll admitted that he had not planned to attend the awards banquet, since "another meeting" was planned; but "somehow" the meeting was cancelled in time for him to attend. Mr. Hove admitted that careful arrangements had been made, with the help of Jaycee member Paul Jones, and with the aid of Mrs. Kroll, to see that Egon was at the banquet.

Mr. Vollmer presented the Distinguished Service award to Rev. Maxwell, citing his interest in and work with youth. Rev. Maxwell organized a panel discussion on drug use last fall which was attended by more than 750 people and which included officials of "Teen Challenge Center" in Phoenix, Ariz.

Rev. Maxwell, nearly overcome by the honor, voiced his warm appreciation of the award, commending the Jaycees for their creed, which states in part their belief that "faith in God gives meaning and purpose to life."

Rep. Hansen, in his address, also commended the Jaycees for their patriotism and devotion to American liberty, comparing the Jaycee creed to the words of President Abraham Lincoln, who believed that "the strength of our nation which constitutes the bulwark of independence is found in love of liberty, and in that spirit which prizes liberty as the heritage of all men."

"We have the heart of the community here," Rep. Hansen said. "We see here those who have served our community and who will carry on its growth. There are many who have helped to lay the foundations of this community; you are all blessed to have had their services and their help."

to Paul Epperson, commending him for his interest in youth and in his profession of education. Degree in physical education from the University of Denver in 1968, and has been on the O'Leary faculty for two years. He has gained the respect of his students and his fellow teachers, Mr. Tinker emphasized.

Mr. Epperson expressed his appreciation to the Jaycees in a short acceptance speech.

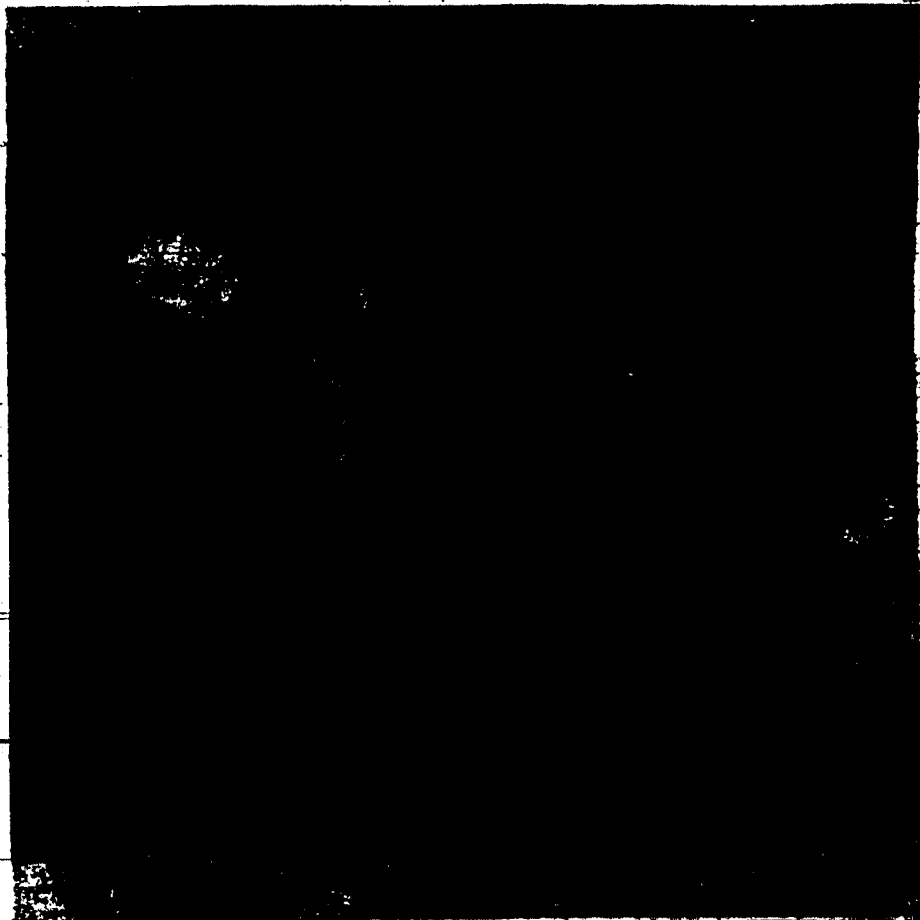

Harold Hove, winner of the DSA award in 1969, presented the Senior Distinguished Service Award to Egon Kroll, Mayor of Twin Falls for six years ago City Councilman for eight. He is a member of the Kiwanis Club, the Elks, the Masons and the Shrine. He is also a former Jaycee member, and has received the Legion of Honor award from the DeMolay organization.

ACCEPTANCE SPEECH is given by Paul Epperson, O'Leary Junior High School faculty member who received a Distinguished Service Award here Monday evening.

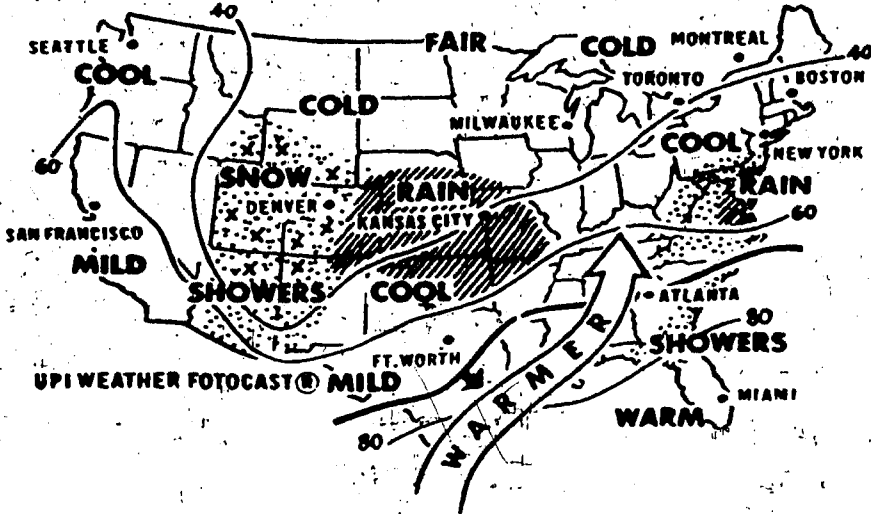

METHODIST MINISTER, Rev. Keith Maxwell, is congratulated by Doug Vollmer, a special award recipient, after he receives a Distinguished Service Award.

FORMER MAYOR Egon Kroll, center, receives the Superior Distinguished Service Award from Harold Hove, right, a former award winner.

Weather Synopsis

The low of winds aloft into the Northern Intermountain Region is continuing from the north today and minor disturbances imbedded in this flow are still causing variable cloudiness and some precipitation at intervals over Southern Idaho and East Central Oregon.

Although a few snow flurries were reported over the southwestern Idaho valleys this morning, most precipitation through Wednesday should be confined to Southeastern Idaho and the mountain areas.

The extended weather outlook into the weekend indicates some shower activity Thursday and Friday, but none Saturday. Daytime temperatures should rise to mostly in the 50s and the low 60s by Saturday, and lows at night will be generally in the 20s and the low 30s.

Surface winds will continue to increase at times to 15 to 25 miles per hour through Wednesday. This, along with a few showers, will create poor spraying and dusting conditions, but smoke ventilation will be good for any weed burning that can be accomplished.

Daytime temperatures through Wednesday will be about the same to a little higher than yesterday, with most high readings in the 40s and the 50s. Lows tonight will range from the upper teens to the low 30s. Some protection of fruit trees will likely be needed in the valleys of Southwestern Idaho and East Central Oregon tonight.

The Solution

How to turn a refreshingly simplistic concept into a practical, economical model is the goal some scientists have set for themselves in the race to find an answer to the solid refuse disposal problem before the nation grinds to a halt — strangled by its mountains of refuse.

Two scientists from the Atomic Energy Commission, Bernard J. Eastlund and William C. Gough, have proposed the ultimate to the disposal problem. That is, to employ controlled thermonuclear reaction not only to vaporize unwanted solids but transmute them into electrified particles of their constituent elements.

The result would be to break down any item into its basic elements and then gather these raw materials to be reused over and over again. What makes the process seem feasible are advances made by both the United States and the Soviet Union toward achieving controlled thermonuclear reactions—to use the energy of the H-bomb to produce virtually unlimited electrical power without any by-products of radioactive waste or thermal pollution.

This is an exciting challenge, one which should be pursued unstintingly as offering a utopian solution to one of the world's most serious problems.

Expensive Lesson

The Santa Barbara oil spill of January, 1969, was, in the light of drilling experience in the channel up to that time, an unforeseeable accident, a fluke response by Mother Earth to man's intrusions into her thin skin that took even government geologists by surprise.

This sort of thing happens. The February, 1970, spill in the Gulf of Mexico off Louisiana—called a much worse disaster than Santa Barbara by Secretary of the Interior Walter J. Hickel—was however, apparently both foreseeable and preventable.

This sort of thing definitely does not have to happen. Hickel has accused the Chevron Oil Company, operator of the still uncontrolled well, of some 137 separate violations of federal drilling regulations in its bloc of wells in this area.

Chief of these was the company's unauthorized removal of a downhole storm choke (a safety device to stop oil flow when it begins surging) on the well responsible for a massive oil slick endangering coastal wildlife and fisheries. He believes this to be the possible cause of the fire which struck the well on Feb. 10, followed by a runaway gusher that at its height leaked 1,000 barrels of crude oil a day into the waters of the Gulf.

According to William T. Pecora, head of the U.S. Geological Survey, the choke evidently was removed because it was reducing production on the well.

Talk about the kingdom lost for want of a nail. For want of a $1,000 choke, Chevron began losing $1 million a day in lost production and clean-up costs. It could also face fines of $2,000 a day for each of the 137 violations if the government prosecutes, plus many millions of dollars in liability claims.

A company spokesman has stated that a storm choke would not necessarily have prevented the fire.

But the presence of a choke certainly would not have caused it. It may not be provable that a choke would have prevented this disaster. The burden of proving the contrary, however, rests with the company, which is in a very poor position to defend itself.

With or without government prosecution, with or without the public's growing alarm over pollution and its wearing patience with those who cause it, this latest oil spill spectacular has taught the oil industry—all industry—a fundamental lesson in economics that should never have been needed to be taught: Shortcutting on safety to enhance immediate profits can be exceedingly expensive in the long run.

MR. SPECTATOR

Viva Earl Haroldsen

It wasn't too long ago that a Miss Mary Vandenberg of Portland, Ore., wrote the City Manager complaining that she was very disturbed at the spoilage which exists in the Snake River Canyon in the vicinity of the Twin Falls.

She couldn't see why such a beautiful thing as the Twin Falls should have such a poor "entrance," and she told the City Manager as much. Well, Gene Milar, the manager, gave the letter to Earl Haroldsen, division manager of the Idaho Power Co.

Mr. Haroldsen wrote Miss Vandenberg and he let the chips fall where they may in the matter which exists in the Falls region. "I, likewise, am very disturbed by the spoiling of the area with the garbage dump and junk yard," he wrote. "However, Idaho Power Co. is not responsible nor do we own or control this land."

"The garbage dump is operated by the City of Kimberly and the junk yard is likewise operated by a local individual who manages the dump."

"This land is owned and controlled by the United States Government and is under the jurisdiction of the Bureau of Land Management. We have tried, without success, to get this 'eyesore' removed. Perhaps you would be good enough to work on your congressional representatives and perhaps with others like you it can be accomplished."

Mr. Haroldsen then explained why Twin Falls (and Shoshone Falls) are not always running and told of the recreational facilities the Power Company maintains at the Twin Falls without charge to the general public.

So hats off to Mr. Haroldsen for putting a visitor to these parts on the right track. And hats off to him for saying what he thinks.

With all the action throughout the entire United States to clean up pollution, it looks like the City of Kimberly can well take a big step in this immediate area and move the dump somewhere else. We can see no good reason for it being at the entrance to one of the most scenic areas in this section of the state.

The Twin Falls County Commissioners are trying to work out an idea (and so are the Twin Falls officials) to have a dump in an area where it would not be offensive and which would be used by all the communities in the county.

It would be a welcome step to accomplish such a thing. It would also result in removing an eye-sore from a beautiful place. If you think as Mr. Haroldsen and Mr. Spectator think, then let the proper officials know!

The Groundwork For Disaster

WASHINGTON — Although Democratic politicians are having a field day blaming the postal crisis on President Nixon's intransigence, the groundwork for disaster was laid over the past three years by the stubborn opposition of postal union leaders to long-overdue reform.

Ever since President John F. Kennedy's postmaster general, Lawrence F. O'Brien, began pushing basic postal reform in 1967, the union bosses have stubbornly resisted not only reform but even gentle compromise out of fear it might undermine their power. Their adamant opposition was renewed when President Nixon's postmaster general, Vinton F. Blount, backed reform with an iron tenacity in refusing to surrender to implacable union opposition. The fact, admitted privately by realistic congressional Democrats, is that there would be no postal crisis today — and postal employees would have a more nearly decent living wage — had the unions not refused to consider reform. Whatever mistakes the congress and Mr. Nixon have made the past six months could not have occurred but for that refusal.

The reason for this short-sighted opposition is found in the unique nature of the unions. Because congress itself determines postal pay, postal unions do not engage in collective bargaining but in Capitol Hill lobbying. Their chiefs are not really labor leaders but, high-priced Washington operatives, dispensing campaign contributions around Capitol Hill.

O'Brien's proposal for an independent postal corporation would have ended all this, establishing wage procedures ending in compulsory arbitration. Afraid of the unknown, the postal union leaders reflexively opposed reform — with the backing of AFL-CIO president George Meany.

As the Nixon Administration took office in 1969, coincidental developments contributed to a turmoil in postal politics. The two major unions, the Letter Carriers and the Clerks, had new leadership and their once warm relationship grew frigid. There was feuding inside the Clerks, with the new president and legislative director in conflict. The Senate Post Office Committee had a brand new chairman, Sen. Gale McGee of Wyoming.

Most important was the nature of the new postmaster general. Unlike O'Brien, Blount was no politician willing to bend but a stiff-backed millionaire Alabama businessman appalled by inefficiency he found in the Post Office Department.

It was Blount's vigorous recommendation last autumn that led to President Nixon's warning that the 11 per cent postal pay hike passed by the House would be vetoed.

Blount's implicit offer: Pass reform and you'll get your pay increase. Faced with this hard-bolled ultimatum, President William Rademacher of the Letter Carriers broke the solid union facade against reform.

A compromise pay-reform bill worked out by Rademacher, Blount, and Rep. Morris Udall of Arizona (foremost Democratic advocate of reform) finally cleared the House Post Office Committee on Feb. 12 — to the amazed chagrin of its chairman, Rep. Thaddeus Dulski of New York, mouthpiece of the postal unions. Although the bill called for only a 5.4 per cent pay increase, it contained a provision — quietly agreed to by the White House — virtually guaranteeing a much bigger boost effective July 1.

But like so many union chieftains today, Rademacher had lost his rank-and-file. Just as they were about to get their delayed pay increase, the Letter Carriers revolted in wildcat strikes and the crisis was born.

It is a crisis for Rademacher, as well as President Nixon and the U.S. Officials of other postal unions, having maintained their opposition to reform, bitterly resent Rademacher. They communicate with him only in formal communications (addressed "Dear Mr. Rademacher"). They can take pride in having maintained the proper degree of militancy.

Indeed, with the pressure now on the President, congress and Rademacher, the other union leaders are off the hook with their past record obscured. Lost in the shuffle, for example, is the fact the postal union leaders have long and unwisely opposed geographical distinctions in pay — a major grievance of hard-pressed New York City workers who began the walkout.

The result is impasse. All this could have been prevented had the unions accepted postal reform, but that simple truth is lost in the chaos.

The Viet GIs Cut

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Sources close to President Thieu in Saigon have informed this reporter they believe it will be feasible for the United States to withdraw 12,000 to 12,500 men a month from South Vietnam. The 12,000 to 12,500-a-month rate would take out approximately 50,000 over four months.

This would bring our an additional 80,000 U.S. troops by election day this November.

These are understood to be conservative estimates. No one wants to draw down U.S. forces with optimistic rapidity, then be forced to throw men back in. That would have a deadly effect on U.S. opinion in the months leading up to the 1970 congressional elections.

(Saigon watches American public opinion and election effects in the United States as closely as President Nixon does.)

It is to be noted that what's written here is Saigon thinking—not Nixon's. But these are the men whose futures are on the line if they guess wrong.

At this time, these Saigon sources believe, this 12,000 to 12,500-a-month withdrawal pace could safely be kept up until American forces in Vietnam have been cut to roughly 300,000.

According to the above calculations, this would take about 11 months. But there is some feeling the 300,000 figure could safely be accomplished in nine months or by mid-January next year.

Thus it would be possible between April 1 and sometime in early November to announce troop ceiling cuts (to be effected by mid-January 1971) totalling something over 134,000 men.

This would be on top of the 115,500 reductions announced between June, 1969, and March, 1970. That adds up to a grand total of 249,500 in withdrawals to be announced by election day.

(The ceiling on U.S. forces in Vietnam was 549,500 in June, 1969. The number of troops actually there was about 540,500. Nixon then ordered a series of reductions. These will bring the ceiling down to 434,000 by this April 15.)

When U.S. forces in Vietnam are down to around 300,000, — sometime early next year — these Vietnamese sources believe that it will be time for another review.

This review would look at the situation in early 1971. It will determine whether withdrawals should be speeded or slowed. There is no thought of halting the cutback, though that option is reserved if Hanoi mounts a series of all-out attacks.

The 12,000 to 12,500-a-month estimates assume that political, economic and military progress in South Vietnam will continue roughly at the rate of the past few months. These predictions take account of Hanoi's military advances in Laos. They assume infiltration from the north will continue at present levels. The calculations were made before Prince Sihanouk's overthrow was announced. Therefore possible effects of the Cambodian coup are not included.

The Negro Votes

WASHINGTON — President Nixon's pusillanimous surrender to the international wet-pants liberal mob on the Rhodesia question is a reminder that politics does not stop at the north portico of the White House. Nixon is looking for Negro votes and the approbation of those singular characters who could give our last dime to the United Nations.

Nixon let Secretary of State William P. Rogers do the dirty work on this one. In a Sunday School manner which must have pained the usually hard-nosed Rogers, our top diplomat made a point of the racial issue in announcing that the U.S. will cut its last tie with white-ruled Rhodesia by closing its consulate-general in Salisbury.

Rogers, of course, noted that the U.S. "has regarded and continues to regard the United Kingdom as the lawful sovereign" despite Rhodesia's declaration of independence in November, 1965. Baloney. The action was taken to score points with Africa's black leaders, who put Rogers through the old arm-twisting routine during his African tour last month.

Washington has never recognized Ian Smith's Rhodesian regime, but had kept the consulate open for more than four years to protect American interests. Now it has decided, after Rogers' poll taking, that the U.S. henceforth will throw in its lot with Africa's black majorities.

I suppose this action is okay in that it will please the Black Panthers, the Students for a Democratic Society and other untidy bowlers, some of them ensconced in New York penthouses. But I expect it caused the remains of folks like George Washington, Tom Jefferson and Lafayette to revolve in their graves.

Admittedly, the Smith regime is racist in that it deprives the overwhelming black majority of the vote. But it is just as legal as the republic brought forth on these shores in 1776, and a great deal more legal than most of the black African "governments," which seized power by military force.

Like Washington & Co., Ian Smith and his pals decided they no longer desired to belong to what now passes as the British empire.

That is also what Britain's black colonies did — but of course their cases are different. Smith & Co. barred the black majority from participation in the government, which was bad international politics and possibly even immoral. Whereupon Britain and the UN forthwith opened most of the world into imposing economic sanctions on Rhodesia.

We were luckier. Not even King George III, who had the I.Q. of a retarded 4-year-old, suggested that he was moving to put down the rebellion because our forefathers were mean to the overwhelming majority of Indians. France did not side with the Indian majority, but gleefully sent us aid, mostly to annoy England. Lafayette did not have a clause in his contract guaranteeing the franchise to the Mohawks.

But in Rhodesia's case, the elegantly raffish UN is now demanding that Britain take all necessary measures "to put an end to the rebellion of the Smith regime." Naturally, the UN now is dominated by nations, some of them so-called, with less than 10 per cent of the world's population and which contribute less than 5 per cent of the UN budget.

In fact, the Rhodesia case is an ominous example of the way these half-baked nations work their will. Britain would have let Ian Smith go his independent way had it not been for pressure from these unfrocked cat-purrs, directed by the Soviet Union, and its Communist flunkies. Britain had enough on its frazzled mind without meddling in Rhodesia's internal affairs.

Hit A Child?

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Please help. My husband when reprimanding our daughter will occasionally slap her on the top, side, or back of the head. I have tried to explain that damage might result, but it doesn't seem to help. He reads your column every night. The child is 4.—T.Y.

Battering a 4-year-old child—and I use the word with deliberation—is a sorry way to "reprimand."

Having experienced the tribulations of child-rearing myself, I think an occasional spank, in the place nature provided for spanking, can have its uses, if not overdone.

But the head? Never! Whether you call it slapping, cuffing, or hitting, don't do it. It is cruel and can be dangerous. It shows a lack of self-control on the parent's part, as well as a lack of judgment.

A child's hearing can be damaged. A misdirected blow (perhaps as the child tries to dodge) can affect the eyes or nose. Dislocations can occur, as in the spine. A "slap" may not sound like a blow, but the open hand, swung hard, can be a very severe jolt indeed, and a concussion is not impossible.

Quite aside from risk of physical damage, a blow to the head is not interpreted by anyone, including a small child, in the same way a restrained spanking is.

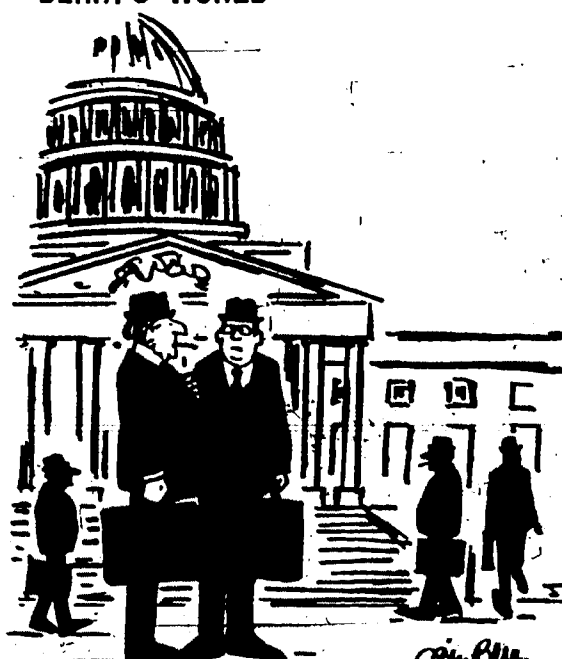

A child can understand a spanking, when deserved. Cuffing the head can instill deep resentment. I am sure your husband does not want that to happen.

Dear Sir: Is your booklet, "Lost Secrets of Reducing," recommended for adults or teen-agers? Or both? I'm 15.—L.B.

Either or both. But the younger you learn to control your weight, the better, so I'm especially pleased when teen-agers use the booklet. (Booklet mailed to anyone in return for 35 cents and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope. Send requests to Dr. Thosteson, care of this newspaper.)

Dr. Thosteson welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

List Might Help Solve Soviet Farm Problems

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI) —For as long as I can remember, which on a clear day is usually about 13 hours, the Soviet Union has been having trouble with its agricultural programs. Just the other day there was yet another one of those by now familiar dispatches from Moscow. It quoted a member of the politburo as saying there were "serious mistakes" in Soviet agriculture last year.

If I am not mistaken, that was about the 20th straight year in which the Soviet farmers made serious mistakes, and I find myself wondering what sorts of errors they commit and why they so consistently goof.

After all, there is a limit to the variety of errors a farmer can make. I should think that by now Soviet farmers would have made them all and would have learned not to repeat them.

Draws Up List

That eventually is not the case, however. Therefore, I have taken the liberty of drawing up a list of "do's and don'ts" which Soviet farmers might find helpful.

Since it is doubtful that this column will be published in the Soviet Union, I am stuffing a copy in a bottle and dropping it in the Potomac. Eventually it should reach the Atlantic and be picked up by one of the Soviet submarines reportedly lurking offshore.

Things to do and don't:

1. Don't plant turnip seeds in fields where you intended to grow cabbage. It is true that cabbage and turnip seeds look quite a bit alike, but they definitely are not interchangeable.

When you try to count turnips towards your cabbage quota, someone will notice the difference and the politburo will be unhappy. Should you have any doubt over whether the plants you have grown are cabbages or turnips, try making a pot of cabbage soup with them.

Cannot Avoid Decisions

2. In weeding a corn field, some distinction should be made between the weeds and the corn. There is no way to avoid making a decision as to which is which. Playing it safe by cutting down both is a bad policy.

3. In growing potatoes, don't assume that the crop is a failure if no potatoes appear on the vines. Try looking under the vines.

4. The best time to fertilize wheat is while the wheat is growing in the field—not after it has been harvested.

5. It is easier to plow in snow than it is to plow in dirt. There is no question about that. Most crops however, will not grow well in the snow. As a rule of thumb, wait until the snow has melted before planting your crops.

Tunney's Daughter Is Held In English Jail

CHESHAM, England (UPI)—A judge today ordered the daughter of former world heavyweight boxing champion Gene Tunney held in jail until April 8, when the court will decide if there is enough evidence to try her for murder in the death of her husband.

Looking tired, her eyes cast down, Joan Tunney Wilkinson, 30, heard Magistrate A. S. Harman order her to appear a week from Wednesday to learn if she will stand trial. She accepted his order calmly.

Mrs. Wilkinson is accused of murdering her husband, Lynn Carter Wilkinson, 31. Police said he died of head injuries Sunday in their cottage in a London suburb. The hearing today was held to determine whether Mrs. Wilkinson was to be held in custody.

Mrs. Wilkinson wore a light brown raincoat and a grey turtleneck sweater, her dark hair drawn back severely as she stood in the prisoner's dock, a police matron at her side.

Two of her brothers, Jay Tunney, 33, and Gene Tunney Jr., 38, appeared in the tiny courtroom behind the red brick police station not far from the century-old cottage where Wilkinson's body was found Easter morning.

The brothers said they arrived to help their sister if they could. They came as representatives of their father, now 72, who was recovering from surgery in Arizona. He won the heavyweight title in 1926.

The brothers said the third son of the boxing champion, Rep. John V. Tunney, D-Calif., would arrive soon and that all three would stay in England during the course of legal proceedings involving their sister.

New York Abortion Law Fails

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI)—A bill to make New York's abortion law one of the most liberal in the nation failed to pass the assembly by three votes late Monday night. Sponsors said they will press for another vote on the action next week.

Two assemblymen who favored the reform bill were absent during the voting, which resulted in a disputed rollcall result of 73-70, three short of a majority of the 150-member assembly.

Assembly Speaker Perry B. Duryea, who disallowed the previously announced aye votes of the two legislators, said he would have cast a deciding 76th vote in favor of reform if he had the opportunity.

The bill's primary sponsor, Mrs. Constance Cook, R-Ithaca, said, "we'll bring it up again, and I think it will pass, when the absentees are here."

The assembly bill, an amended version of that passed two weeks ago by the Senate, would permit abortions within six months after conception with the mother's consent if the operation is performed by a licensed doctor. Abortions also could be performed at any time if necessary to save the patient's life.

The bill, which would be effective July 1 if passed by both houses and signed by Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, contains no residency provision. The existing bill, which dates back to 1929, allows abortions only when a mother's life is endangered.

Navy Jet Wins Aerial Fight

SAIGON (UPI)—A U.S. Navy jet fighter shot down a North Vietnamese MIG21 in a dogfight over North Vietnam Saturday, the U.S. Command announced today.

The Navy plane made the kill near the North Vietnamese town of Thanh Hoa, 125 miles north-northwest of the Demilitarized Zone (DMZ) that divides North and South Vietnam, spokesmen said.

It was the first Communist aircraft shot down over North Vietnam since the United States ended bombing of the North Nov. 1, 1968.

The Navy F4 Phantom, a powerful twin-engine jet capable of 1,600 m.p.h. speeds, was protecting reconnaissance planes flying over North Vietnam when they were attacked by the MIG, spokesmen said.

On the ground, North Vietnamese troops attacked another U.S. paratroop outpost between Hue and the A Shau Valley Monday night, killing four Americans and wounding eight.

Mrs. Wilkinson is represented by a British lawyer. She will be held at the police station in Amersham, the nearest town to the village of Chesham, where she lived with her husband and their two small daughters.

More U.S. Troops Die In Raids

SAIGON (UPI)—North Vietnamese troops attacked another U.S. paratroop outpost between Hue and the A Shau Valley Monday night, killing four Americans and wounding eight, military spokesmen said today. The attackers threw bundles of explosives and fired rocket-propelled grenades in the assault against the 101st Airborne Division post 16 miles southwest of Hue. The defenders killed at least three North Vietnamese in a two-hour battle.

Far to the south in the Mekong Delta, a South Vietnamese ranger battalion supported by armored vehicles reported killing 58 guerrillas in a new outbreak of fighting around the government's Chi Lang training center.

The training base is 105 miles west-southwest of Saigon and six miles from Cambodia.

The government troops fought the guerrillas Monday afternoon northeast of Chi Lang about 10 hours after guerrillas mounted their second assault against the post in 24 hours.

One government soldier was killed and four wounded, military sources said.

The sources said what the guerrillas had in mind by attacking the training base was to divert pressure by the South Vietnamese army upon guerrilla base camps in nearby Cambodia.

South Vietnamese armored columns twice Friday and Saturday crossed the frontier to attack Viet Cong and North Vietnamese units in Cambodia, authoritative sources said. One of the attacks overran a Viet Cong training camp, the sources said.

Guerrilla guffies shelled nine Allied targets Monday night and early today, including the provincial capital of Tay Ninh City 55 miles northwest of Saigon, military spokesmen said. The salvo of 20 rounds of 82mm mortar fire wounded one Vietnamese civilian.

SINO-JAPANESE TRADE
TOKYO (UPI)—Japan's trade with Communist China in 1969 was worth $625,607,000 on a customs cleared basis, according to the Japan External Trade Organization. Japan imported $234,540,000 (M) worth of goods from mainland China and sold $391,067,000 (M) worth.

Safety

WASHINGTON (UPI)—New Safety standards for the nation's underground coal mines went into effect Monday, the Interior Department announced. The new rules apply to about 3,000 mines and affect tens of thousands of miners. They are part of the 1969 federal coal mine health and safety law signed last December by President Nixon.

Abortion Law Fails To Pass

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (UPI)—The Maryland Senate passed early today a bill repealing the state's abortion laws. The measure must race the clock for House of Delegates concurrence on two minor amendments before the 1970 General Assembly session ends tonight.

The repeal measure passed the House by 74-59 vote earlier this month. It simply removed all abortion laws from the books, leaving the matter up to the woman and her doctor, which in effect would make it the most liberal abortion policy in the United States.

Proponents of the bill charged the two amendments were tacked on in the Senate in an effort to keep the bill from being cleared by the House before the 70-day session ends tonight.

One amendment would exempt from civil liability doctors and hospitals who refuse to perform the operation. The other is a technical measure which stipulates the law take effect July 1, 1970.

Thousands Flee Ruined Homes In Turkey As Death Toll Nears 2,000

GEDIZ, Turkey (UPI)—Thousands fled the smoldering rubble that was once Gediz and pitched tents today in hills above the wreckage rescue workers said may hide enough corpses to raise the death toll in Saturday's earthquake to 2,000. Government-issued tents mushroomed in nearby hills overlooking what until Saturday was a sprawling farm community of 7,500. Secondary tremors, 10-degree cold and driving rains added to the misery.

Agents tending the stricken in the 150-mile arc hit by the weekend temblor spoke of a final death toll of 2,000. In Gediz alone they counted 868 dead. Hayrettin Nakipoglu, the national housing minister, who directed rescue operations, put the confirmed dead at 1,000 and injured at 4,000. He said more than 2,000 homes had been destroyed.

Steel-helmeted Turkish army troops continued to dig for victims. Half of Gediz was leveled and the rest of its buildings so badly damaged that officials believe they will have to be razed.

Tears welled from the blackened eyes of bruised survivors who sifted wreckage in search of missing loved ones. Smoke wafted from the remains of collapsed homes despite torrential rains and streams of water played by rescuers' hoses.

In one of the best preserved buildings, the town's two-story school, the clock had stopped at three minutes past 11, showing it was two minutes slow when the quake hit at 11:05 p.m. Saturday.

Turkey mounted a massive relief operation assisted by governments and private organizations in the United States, West Germany and other foreign countries. Food, water and medical supplies were trucked and parachuted into the area.

New tremors hit the stricken area Monday, destroying some of buildings that resisted Saturday's quake. The threat of plague was prevalent, authorities said.

Request

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI)—The governors of Utah and three other states are urging Interior Secretary Stewart Udall to adopt new operating criteria for dams along the Colorado River.

A request to that effect was signed by Gov. Calvin L. Rampton of Utah and the governors of Wyoming, Colorado, and New Mexico.

Ival Goslin, engineer-manager, Upper Colorado River Commission, said he planned to mail the governors' statement and the proposed criteria to Hickel today.

A spokesman said the proposed new criteria would delete charges upon the upper basin states for power deficiencies at Hoover Dam incident to filling Lake Powell behind Glen Canyon Dam.

Twin Falls Oil Slick Displayed To Council

Twin Falls has an oil slick of its own and Monday night a jar of this oil was shown to members of the City Council. "It makes me sick," Councilman John Christoffersen said.

The "oil" was taken from the Perrine Coulee as it runs through the Lynwood Shopping Center, he said.

Mayor Frank Feldman said, "This attitude that the creek will rise and wash it away will no longer do. We have to take positive action to clean up this mess."

To help, he has designated April "Beautification Month" in Twin Falls and during the week of April 20 city street crews will make stops throughout the city, picking up solid waste material for deposit at the city dump site near the City-County Airport, Joslin Field.

Councilmen warned that garbage cans must be covered and trash must not be left in alleys or streets.

This includes leaving trash or garbage in a sack for pickup by the city's sanitation contractor.

Mayor Feldman urged everyone in Twin Falls to clean up their property and "make Twin Falls beautiful as spring approaches."

He said city sanitation crewmen will also issue citations for violations of the city ordinance in connection with refuse and garbage within the city.

Teacher Denied Wedding Pay

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (UPI)—The Rhode Island Department of Education Monday denied an appeal by a high school teacher who asked he be paid for the two days it took him to recover from his wedding.

Thomas W. Hall, who teaches at Bowdoin High School, has asked for the pay under a provision in school regulations that allows teachers two days "emergency leave of absence with pay each year for personal, legal, business, household or family matters which require an absence during school hours."

Education Commissioner William P. Robinson said, "It is our opinion that the nature of the occasion for which the leave with pay was requested was not an emergency."

Hall was married Dec. 7, and missed the following two days of school.

White House Plagued With Starlings Again

By MERRIMAN SMITH
UPI White House Reporter
WASHINGTON (UPI)—The White House is at it again, trying to scare away the starlings.

These pesky black birds show up in the neighborhood of 1600 Pennsylvania Avenue Avenue every spring. Starlings apparently have something against white paint and those who work in or near white structures.

This has been a White House problem for many years. This spring, latest developments in electronic communications are being used to influence the starlings to go elsewhere with their divebombing.

Sad Noise
Each afternoon, shortly before dusk, loudspeakers hidden in trees around the White House begin to emit sad noise. Theoretically it is the sound of starlings in great distress.

It is virtually impossible to project the sound in written form, but it is something of a scratchy, annoying bleep; an off-key screech which can be disruptive to the thoughts of peace pickets plodding along the north sidewalk of the White House.

Picket novitiates, in fact, have thought the screeching was directed at them until a friendly sight-seeing guide explained the situation.

As long ago as the Eisenhower administration, the White House communications agency tried the same system against starlings, as well as squirrels.

The late President Dwight D. Eisenhower had an elegant golf green in the White House south grounds and he became quite annoyed when the putting surface was pocked by squirrels who regarded the smooth grass as an ideal place for burying acorns.

Starlings by the thousand also made Ike's late afternoon putting sessions hazardous.

Use Loudspeakers
The communications men, commissioned by the Secret Service to do something about the varmint birds and animals distracting the president, decided to take advantage of the loudspeakers.

The speakers were part of a public address system used primarily to summon the cars of visiting dignitaries. The communications people acquired recordings of starlings in distress and squirrels supposedly in deep trouble, playing the tapes through the loudspeaker system at selected times of the day.

The White House squirrels were unimpressed. Disrespectfully, they took to sitting on the loudspeakers themselves and listening intently as recorded squirrel-talk poured forth. Starlings apparently got the message and would disappear for a time. The birds, however, never stayed away for very long and the battle began again as it does each afternoon in this spring of the Nixon administration.

The first public school in the Colonies was the William Penn Charter School founded in Philadelphia in 1689.

Mail Embargo Now Lifted To All U. S. Areas

Postmaster Fred Sanger, Twin Falls, said Monday his office has been advised all mail embargos imposed during the letter carriers' strike have now been lifted. Mail will be accepted now for all zip code areas.

Mail will be going through on regular schedule to all areas including the major eastern cities where the embargo was imposed more than a week ago. Mr. Sanger said there is no backlog of mail in this area and reports indicate even the major city postal centers are now back to normal in deliveries, with no major holdover of Easter mail.

Political Kidnapings— New Weapon For Reds

By JACK BRANNAN
United Press International
By pulling five political kidnapings in four countries within the past month, communist subversives in Latin America have demonstrated successfully their latest technique in guerrilla warfare. For the first time, they have a weapon with which to force the governments to do their exact bidding. In this respect alone, it is a weapon more effective than bombs and machine guns, airline hijackings and bank robberies. Until Argentina balked at releasing two prisoners in exchange for a Paraguayan diplomat abducted March 24, the governments had acceded quickly to the demands of political kidnapers. So far, ransom has been little more than the release of certain imprisoned comrades, their transportation to asylum in Mexico, and the publication and broadcast of the kidnapers' calls for revolution and charges against the government. The success of the past month, however, could prompt attempts for increased ransom in the future.

Until two groups of Brazilian communists kidnaped U.S. Ambassador C. Burke Elbrick in Rio de Janeiro last September and successfully exchanged him for 15 of the government's political prisoners, political kidnaping was seldom used as a means of terrorism.

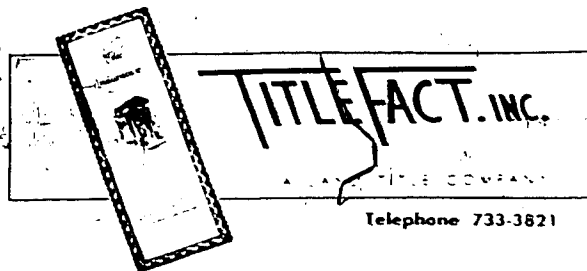

Venezuelan communists abducted a U.S. military attache in Caracas and Bolivian tin miners held four U.S. officials for 10 days in 1963, but their only major achievement was gaining notoriety. In August, 1968, members of Guatemala's armed rebel forces attempted to kidnap U.S. Ambassador John Gordon Mein. When he tried to flee, they shot and killed him. But with the kidnaping of Elbrick, the Brazilians laid down for their comrades elsewhere a formula for abduction, communication of ransom demands and confirmation of their fulfillment that has been the pattern for the five subsequent kidnapings in Guatemala, Argentina, Brazil and the Dominican Republic during the past month.

One of the two kidnap victims; in Guatemala was a U.S. embassy attache, as was the victim in the Dominican Republic. In Sao Paulo, they abducted the Japanese consul; in Buenos Aires, a Paraguayan consul, and in the other Guatemala kidnaping the foreign minister. Total ransom for the five: 29 prisoners, flown to asylum in Mexico.

Board Studies Plans

Several members of the Twin Falls County Fair Board met informally Monday afternoon with architect, Ivan Stone, to review plans for the new grandstand structure.

Fair board members discussed the insurance settlement in which the county accepted $200,069.01 from the fire last November that burned the wooden stands, and agreed that this, with other available funds, will allow construction to begin.

Harold Hove, chairman of the fair board, said it may not be possible to do all the board had hoped this year, but with available funds the stands will be built, with arrangements for additions and roofing at a later time.

Bids are to be opened April 17 at 8 p.m. in the office at the fairgrounds. Mr. Hove said the blueprints are now available to interested bidders.

Long range plans for the fairgrounds, including utilization of recently purchased lands to the south of the present grounds, include improving the race track, relocation of the stands, moving some of the present buildings such as the horse barns and improving and expanding others.

Class Is Planned At Rupert

RUPERT—A class in horse-shoeing will be offered for interested persons in the Rupert area on Friday through Sunday under the auspices of the Office of Continuing Education at Idaho State University.

The class will consist of three sessions, one a lecture and the other two involving practical experience, according to Bill Byrne, director of the Office of Continuing Education at ISU.

On Friday the lecture will be held in room 11 of Minico High School from 7 to 10 p.m. The practical application sessions will be at the Minidoka County Fairgrounds Saturday and Sunday from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. each day.

Registration and payment of the $35 fee may be carried out by contacting Doyle Lowder, Box 494, Rupert. Lowder is at School District No. 331, telephone 436-4777. After 6 p.m. he can be contacted at home by calling 436-6762. Fee payment and registration must be completed by Wednesday.

Don Applegate, a reading specialist at the Snake River Center for Improvement of Instruction, will teach the horseshoeing class. An owner and trainer of race horses, he began shoeing horses when he was 14 years old.

Teacher Salaries Adopted

A salary scale for teachers in Twin Falls School District No. 411 was adopted Monday night, showing an increased outlay of $43,990 for teacher salaries for 1970-71.

The scale, negotiated by five representatives of the local education association and the school board, shows salaries ranging from a low of $4,600 for teachers with two years' training and no experience to $8,805 for teachers with Masters degrees and 17 years' experience.

An extra step also was included in the scale to benefit between 40 and 50 teachers who fall between the Bachelor degree and five years' training category. This will see teachers with Bachelor's degrees and 15 hour training receive from $5,950 with no experience to $8,025 with 17 years' experience.

Contract Given On Building

J. A. Clawson Construction Co., Twin Falls, was awarded a contract Monday night for improvements at Twin Falls High School, scheduled to be completed by Aug. 19.

The local firm submitted the low bid of $136,416, which included three alternates, $8,508 for library; $6,800 for carpeting, and $1,970 for interior decoration.

An additive alternate, $3,500 for a flooding door in the classroom wing to be constructed, still has not been acted on by trustees. A decision on this item is expected to be made shortly.

Dr. Ernest Ragland, superintendent, said work should be under way on the project by sometime next week. Major item in the improvement is a uniquely shaped wing which will be added onto the southwest wing of the present facility.

The project will be financed with about $100,000 which currently is in the plant facilities fund, and anticipation of about $50,000 from this year's plant facilities levy.

The levy, re-enforced in 1968 for 10 years, is for two mills and at present assessed valuation, gathers about $53,000 a year into the local school district's coffers. This enables improvement on limited scales on buildings within the school system.

Trustees adopted the 1970-71 operating budget with no interest school patrons attending.

Major differences between the 1969-70 and 1970-71 budgets are in both revenue and expenditures for the two fiscal years. Anticipated revenue for 1969-70 was $3,494,086.03, while the 1970-71 revenue anticipated is down to $3,469,310.00.

Expenditures for 1970-71, however, are expected to rise to $3,431,160.72 over the 1969-70 figure of $3,383,876.00. An anticipated balance of $110,210.03 will be left at the end of the current fiscal year.

T. F. Library Invaded By "Treasure Hunters"

"Treasure hunters" invaded the Twin Falls public library last week in the form of sixth grade students from Morningside and Harrison schools, seeking knowledge from collections on library shelves.

The youngsters were piloted through the library in their quest for information by teachers Jacqueline Tanner and Mrs. Ena Berry, with the assistance of library personnel.

Each student was supplied a printed guide and challenged to visit and become familiar with 22 specific areas of the library, beginning with the card file and proceeding through to cover all facilities and services of the library. Teachers said the interest of the students was so keen it was difficult to pry them away from the library in the allotted time. Grade school students are encouraged to participate in such tours to learn the full range of services of the library and methods of finding needed information.

SON BORN KING HILL—Word has been received here of the birth of a son to Mr. and Mrs. Wm. (Billy) Ellis, Boise. The father attended the King Hill school.

The Couch summit course is average for this time of year, according to Dick Gooby of the Soil Conservation Service. There are 53 inches of snow on Couch and a water content of 17.7 inches compared to 22.2 inches of water content at this time last year. He said 17.9 is average for this course.

There are 22 inches of snow with a water content of 8.7 inches at the Soldier Ranger Station site above the Ski Lift on Soldier Creek. Last year at this time there was a water content of 22.2 inches at this site, as there was heavy snowfall over Camas County. Average for this site is 9.2 inches of water.

This year the snow and water content is 90 per cent of average at the Soldier Ranger Station site. Cold nights so far have delayed melting of snow on Camas Prairie.

T. F. Wins Second Annexation Suit

The city has won its second annexation suit, but there will be a 60-day period of limbo until capital improvements can be made in the two areas involved. The city won more than 80 per cent of the property it wanted in a suit involving the Orchalara Subdivision on the Northwest edge of the city recently, and Monday it was announced the city won in a suit involving the Canyon, Crest Subdivision, a cluster of homes on the Northeast edge of the city.

The city will provide, starting now, police and fire protection, but capital improvements such as street lighting, water and sewer lines and street work, will wait until the 60-day appeal period has passed.

First District Court Judge James Towles, who heard both cases in Twin Falls during the first of February, telephoned his memorandum decision to the city's attorney Monday.

PROUDLY HOLDING the trophy he won as winner of the Eighth Annual Idaho State Championship Fiddlers' Contest is Lloyd Wanser, Weiser, left. With him is Hassell Vargason, state fiddler president. The contest was held at Gooding.

Weiser Fiddler Wins Event

He received the travel trophy, first place trophy and a $100 check.

In 1963 he was Idaho's own

"National Fiddlin' Champion." Held for the first time in the nation was a certified junior champion fiddling contest, won by Rick Youngblood, Weiser. He received a trophy.

Also receiving trophies in the junior division were Janet Hale, second, and Alison Hale, third, the only others entered.

Receiving trophies in the "Old Time Fiddlers" were Mannie Shaw, tenth; Teddy Jones, ninth; Dough Jenkins, eighth; Monte Stephens, seventh; Duane Stephens, sixth; Harold Donelson, fifth; Vivian Skeans, fourth; Dave Frisbee, third and Rue Frisbee, second.

There were 24 old time fiddlers entered in competition.

No Protests Heard On Burley's Budget

BURLEY—No protests were expressed to Burley City Councilmen during the public hearing on the proposed budget of $1,924,830.09 in council chambers.

Four residents attended the public hearing and asked questions, but no protests were entered.

The city is awaiting special permission from the Idaho State Tax Commission to exceed the four per cent limitation imposed by House Bill 304 passed last year by the legislature. The councilmen are seeking approval to raise some $70,000 in increased revenue through property taxes which would be used to retire anticipation notes. This request for an increase is for one year only.

The 1970 budget also includes $120,471.37 in obligations for 1969 bills that are to be paid out of the 1970 interim appropriations.

Records show $1,666,067.51 revenue for 1969 for the city of Burley.

Estimated expenses for 1970 are general, $126,802.23; airport, $23,977; cemetery, $20,038.14; buildings, $23,781; parks and recreation, $75,018; fire, $52,836.54; police, $173,469.36; sanitation, $101,144.94; streets, $145,286.73; 1969 obligations paid out of 1970 interim appropriations, $120,471.37; partial retirement of tax anticipation notes, $70,000; library, $14,500; electric, $678,009.22; electric 1969 obligations paid out of 1970 interim appropriations, $21,578.81; water, $240,792.61; and water 1969 obligations paid out of 1970 interim appropriations, $28,124.14.

One-Way Street Planned In T. F.

Second Avenue East and North, running from Blue Lakes Boulevard to Addison Avenue, will become a one-way street with three lanes of traffic in about a month, if an ordinance placed on first reading at the Twin Falls City Council meeting Monday night is approved.

It's all part of allowing Highway 30 to pass through Twin Falls.

Parking will be removed along most of Second Avenue East and North, especially in the downtown area. The four-way stops at the junctions of Second Avenue North and Third Street North and Second Avenue East and Third Street East will also be changed to allow Second Avenue traffic westbound to proceed through without a stop.

There will be a traffic light at Shoshone Street and Second Avenue and another at Second Avenue North and Addison Avenue.

Stop signs already have been placed on streets going east to Second Avenue North and East.

In effect, this will make Second Avenue East and North about the same as Second Avenue South and West, and allow for the smooth flow of traffic through the city and taking much of the traffic off of Main Avenue.

Main Avenue will remain a one-way street for the present time, and that avenue will become local traffic in nature once construction is finished in the downtown area this summer.

Airport At Hailey Has Small Fire

HAILEY—The Hailey volunteer fire department was called to action twice Monday morning, first to the Gus Stertman residence and next to the Hailey airport.

The fire at the airport did very minor damage, officials noted, with a short in a light fixture in the Sun Valley Airlines hangar causing the alarm. That fire was reported at 11 a.m. and was extinguished immediately although firemen remained at the scene for a short time to make sure everything was under control.

About 10 a.m. a neighbor boy playing in his yard noticed flames in an attached garage at the Stertman residence at 23 W. Galena, Hailey. He reported it to his mother who notified firemen and several trucks were dispatched immediately. The blaze was apparently caused from rubbish stored in the garage and the flames charred the entire interior of the garage as well as a late model car parked inside.

No estimate of damage was available but firemen were able to keep the flames from reaching the adjoining home.

Burley Rotarians Elect Dave Berry As President

BURLEY—New officers were elected by members of the Burley Rotary Club during their noon luncheon meeting at Bryan's Cafe. The new officers will assume their new duties in July.

Dave Berry was elected president. Other officers elected were Richard Haisings, first vice president; Kent Church, second vice president; and Al Kempton, Merrill Atkinson, Gary Hahnrich and Ken Rosencrans, all directors.

Lex Kuman announced the annual ski race Wednesday at Pomerelle between members of the Lions Club and the Rotary Club. All members who did were urged to attend the ski event.

Ted Kelley outlined plans for the "100 Years of Progress" events to be held throughout Cassia County this summer. Kelley introduced Max Bruce, Bureau of Land Management official, and an

State Unit To Meet At Sun Valley

SUN VALLEY—Members of the executive committee of the National Council of State Governments will meet here Thursday and Friday for an annual business session with Speaker of the House William J. Lanting, Hollister, as meeting coordinator.

Mr. Lanting said the executive board of the national organization will adopt a budget for the 1971-72 period and will discuss a number of policies and projects.

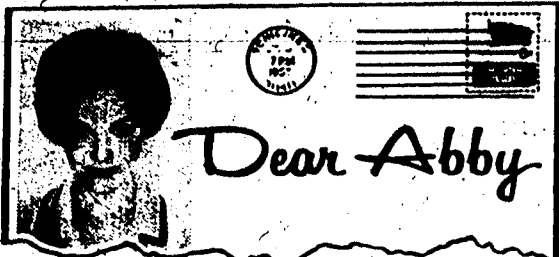

The Council of State Governments is comprised of state legislators, governors, other state officers and a number of U.S. congressmen and senators. Their function is to research and provide guidelines on problems of mutual interest to all state governments and to keep a line of communication between officials in all states.

Meetings in Sun Valley open at 10:30 a.m. Thursday and continue through the day and again Friday at 8:30 a.m. and will close at noon. Mr. Lanting said among those attending will be State Senator Charles Delaney, Vermont, chairman of the executive committee; Gov. Robert McNair, South Carolina; Assemblyman Charles Conrad of California; State Sen. Thomas J. Kalman, Pennsylvania; Sam E. Pope, Virginia, delegate; State Sen. W. H. Brockbank, Utah; State Auditor Wayne F. McGown, Wisconsin and the council's executive director Brevard Crichtfield, Lexington, Ky., and his assistant Lois Murphy.

Mr. Bruce told of the old trails that were traveled by the pioneers and trappers before the days of settlement in the Utah and Oregon territories. He spoke of the events which made Cassia County the "honey" for several divisions of the Old Oregon Trail and the California Trail.

Mr. Bruce traced his origin of the word "Cassia." There are many conflicting versions he feels that historical data and records connect the name with the French derivation of Cassi, Cassius, Cassin, Cass and even Cassia, all of which are synonymous with the word "trail." The English term, "Trail River" and "Cassia County" grew.

Guests during the Rotary luncheon were: Max Bruce, Bureau of Land Management official, and an

DEAR ABBY: Where did people get the crazy idea that people can concentrate only in complete silence? All a silent classroom produces is a bunch of nail-biting, finger-drumming, foot-shaking nervous kids. Dead silence is unnatural, and makes people fidgety. If you doubt this, the next time you are in church, if the service lasts over an hour, how hard does the bench get? And how many places do you suddenly itch?

The noise level in most hospitals is higher than it is in the average classroom. That's why we have so many "educated" graduates who have beautiful paper qualifications, but can't perform. There just aren't many job situations that meet the silence and orderliness demanded in the average classroom.

Do you want to know why Johnny can't read? He's asleep with his eyes open.

A TEACHER

DEAR ABBY: Remember the mother who asked you if a child could study properly with the television, radio or stereo on? Well, years ago, I wouldn't allow it either. In fact, I was delighted that here at last was a good lever a mother could use: "Finish those lessons before turning on any of those distractions!" But a wise neighbor, Alberta Smith said, "Nay, nay, you'll be sorry one day." How right Alberta was!

I always thought I was doing the right thing by insisting that my children have complete silence in which to study. Now my daughter is in a classroom that must accommodate two grades at the same time, and she is having great difficulty concentrating on her work while the other class is reciting. She used to be a straight A student. This semester she will barely pass. So we are changing our study habits but fast. Besides, when children grow up and go to work, do you think everyone around them is going to be quiet so they can do their thing?

ALBERTA'S FRIEND

DEAR ABBY: Your column attests to the fact that many bright children are able to concentrate with background noise, but unfortunately, according to recent research, about 60 per cent of children with learning disabilities cannot handle background noises which compete for their attention.

Most people need a little familiar background noise to feel "safe" and to know they are in touch with their environment. Anyone who has had a sudden hearing loss will tell you this, but don't try to explain it to the lady who plugs up her ears at night.

Abby, I'll go along with your original advice: "Show me the report card and I'll give you my answer."

If a child does well despite background noise, don't worry. If he is not doing well, why take a chance?

JACK KATZ, Ph.D. [Audiologist]

DEAR ABBY: I can't tell you why, but I cannot study unless I have some "background noise." I have tried to concentrate in a room with dead silence, and I get so nervous I just about jump out of my skin!

I am a freshman at a large university, and I haven't had lower than an "A" since I was in the eighth grade.

NEEDS NOISE IN ANN ARBOR

DEAR ABBY: I read with interest the answers to the problem of loud noise while studying.

What employer will furnish a TV, radio, or stereo so his employees can concentrate on their work? If children cannot do their homework without "music" blasting, what will happen in a nice quiet office or other workroom?

JUST AN OLD SQUARE: VIRGINIA BEACH

DEAR SQUARE: QUIET! Have you been in an office lately?

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

Women Will Participate In Holiday From Drudgery

NEW YORK (UPI)—American women will participate in a holiday from drudgery in the office and on the homefront Aug. 26—according to an edict from Betty Friedan, president of NOW (National Organization for Women).

If you accept, you'll do absolutely nothing that day, the 50th anniversary of the 19th Amendment to the Constitution—which gave women the right to vote.

You may do some manly things—like standing on a corner and whistling at good-looking guys—while practicing equal purgits—with men, if you wish. But, please, don't do anything womanly.

Mrs. Friedan sounded the call for a general strike by women that anniversary day while at the annual meeting of NOW in Des Plaines, Ill. Since usual laborious things will be out, perhaps fun for all will be the result.

Strictly fun isn't what Mrs. Friedan has in mind. Office workers will punch the time-clocks but after that, bosses, watch out.

The chief drum-beater for women's rights wants office machines and switchboards unplugged, typewriters silenced, stenographer's pencils stopped, and women, in effect, to sit on their hands—until bosses get the idea that women deserve to be paid on a par with men.

On the homefront, women may express themselves by leaving dishes in the sink, rings in the bathtub, dust on the mantle. They may refuse to take their stand at the range and steer clear of the grocery store—if such a trip means victuals for the family.

They may even steer clear of the steering wheel itself, if it means calling attention to their worth as family chauffeur.

While Mrs. Friedan, author of the "Feminine Mystique" (book that pepped up this equal rights movement), may be on the right track, there's such a thing as carrying a movement too far.

If her declaration is taken seriously, women that anniversary day in August will refuse to go through a doorway held open by a man, nix seats offered by males on conveyances, refuse to have the stronger sexed ones help with heavy packages.

They won't let men pick up luncheon or dinner checks. They will refuse to accept invitations offered by males that day. In the spirit of equality they will reserve the right to issue such invitations.

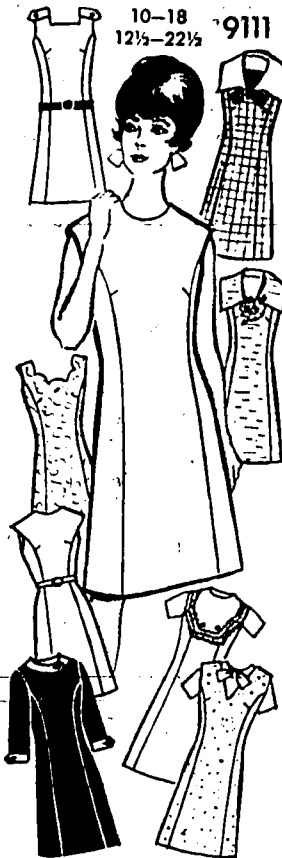

The very worst thing that could happen (to bachelors) in the 24-hour period of equal rights: women would grab the right to propose.

Perhaps that wouldn't be bad. The year 1970 isn't leap year—with its extra day the second month for women to propose marriage to men.

Women contemplating expressing that equal right on Aug. 26, better think twice. Once they've proposed, they'll also have to—buy an engagement ring and ask the

Students Observe Working Chemists Do "Impossible"

NEW YORK (UPI)—Drive a nail with a banana. Silly, you say.

Drop a rubber ball and see it shatter. Silly to that, too.

Don't tell a lucky batch of students from the San Francisco Bay area it can't be done. They've seen such feats performed before their eyes.

It's happening during an experiment involving cooperation with a research center in Richmond, Calif., and youngsters from Portola Junior High School in nearby El Cerrito.

The students, all from disadvantaged backgrounds, go to the laboratory while working chemists try to turn them on about science, making it come alive for them.

The banana that drove the nail became hammer-strong during a bath in liquid nitrogen which froze it solid. A dip in the same stuff made the rubber ball shatter instead of bounce when it was dropped.

The students go in groups of 10 once a week. Each is assigned to a research center scientist—tutor for the day. It's more than a field trip. Students get school credit for participation.

Dramatic demonstrations

aside, there's plenty of basic science-teaching involved. Occasionally, the students ask their tutors for help with classroom homework problems.

Officials at the school are just as enthusiastic about the program as are tutors from the work-a-day laboratories (Stauffer Chemical Co.).

Principal John Scharetz reports significant changes in students who have participated—a change in the way they look at school and in their attitudes toward teachers.

"They need motivation and this experience helps provide it," he said.

Robert Greer, coordinator of the program, said:

"The kids don't really understand the importance of education, but after talking to a chemist it becomes relevant. And if there's anything these kids dig, it's relevancy."

But there's a two-way pitch to the learning.

"All of us are learning a tremendous amount from these kids," one of the scientists said.

"Me—I'm learning how youngsters think and react. Maybe I'm closing the generation gap for myself—with their help."

Bucks Set 2 Playoff Records In 156-120 Thrashing Of 76ers

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Lew Alcindor scored 33 points and pulled down 17 rebounds as the Milwaukee Bucks trounced the Philadelphia 76ers 156-120 Monday to take a 2-1 lead in the National Basketball Association's Eastern Division semifinal Playoffs. Milwaukee's biggest point total was the highest ever by a team in a playoff game, bettering the 145 points by St. Louis at Detroit on March 25, 1968. The Bucks also set a new playoff assist record with 46, bettering the 43 total owned previously by Los Angeles. Alcindor averaged a point a minute before leaving the game near the close of the third quarter after an overpowering performance.

Spring Drills To Start For Vandals

By United Press International Ken Holtzman pitched a five-hitter and became the first Chicago Cub pitcher to go nine innings this spring in a 6-2 victory Monday over the California Angels which stretched the Cubs' winning streak to six games.

Dick Drago of the Kansas City Royals, Gary Peters of the Boston Red Sox, Jim Nash of the Atlanta Braves, Bob Moose of the Pittsburgh Pirates and Don Cardwell of the New York Mets also turned in strong performances as the pitchers began to "heat up" in earnest for next week's opening of the major league season.

Holtzman, a 17-game winner last season, struck out four and walked one. Sandy Alomar's run-scoring triple in the third inning was the only extra base hit off the left-hander who is rated a potential 20-game winner. Jim Hickman drove in three runs for the Cubs with a triple and a single.

Drago, 11-13 in 1969, allowed five hits in eight innings as the Royals beat the Detroit Tigers, 6-2. A two-run homer by Luis Alcaraz and triples by Bob Oliver and Pat Kelly were the big blows of the Athletics' seven-hit attack on Earl Wilson and Bob Reed.

Peters, the veteran left-hander acquired from the Chicago White Sox, yielded six singles in seven innings in the Red Sox' 2-0 triumph over the St. Louis Cardinals. Peters has allowed only 14 hits and hasn't yielded a run in 24 exhibition innings.

Nash, a key Atlanta pitcher now that Ron Reed is sidelined, was tagged for two runs in the last inning of a seven-inning stint. Rico Carty drove in three runs with a double and a homer to lead the Braves' attack enroute to a 6-2 win over the Montreal Expos.

Bob Moose, who won 14 games and pitched a no-hitter last season, was touched for three hits and two runs in seven innings during the Pirates' 5-4 victory over the Cincinnati Reds. Eighth-inning homers by Ron Davis and Dave Cash provided the Pirates with their winning margin after Ted Savage gave the Reds a 4-3 lead with a two-run homer in the top of the eighth.

Cardwell, 8-10 last season, allowed three runs and six hits in six innings for the Mets, who defeated the White Sox, 5-3. Rookie Mike Jorgensen drove in two runs and Cleon Jones homered for the Mets.

Home runs by Rich Reese and Brant Alyea led the Minnesota Twins to a 4-1 win over the Philadelphia Phillies; two-run homers by Tommy Dean, Nate Colbert and Chris Cannizzaro led the San Diego Padres to an 8-6 decision over the Seattle Pilots and the Cleveland Indians handed the Oakland Athletics their seventh straight defeat, 7-2, with the help of seven innings of two-hit pitching by Barry Moore.

HONG KONG (UPI)—Isao Katsumata of Japan won the Hong Kong Open golf tournament Sunday by one stroke over compatriot Haruo Yasuda. Katsumata fired a 70 on the final round for a 274 total.

Kentucky All-Stars Rip Rivals

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UPI)—Dan Issel and Mike Pratt, Kentucky's goldust twins, combined for 67 points Monday night to pace the Kentucky All-Stars to a 129-106 victory over the Tennessee All-Stars.

Pratt collected 29 points and fed his teammates with six assists to earn the "Star of Stars" trophy in balloting by sportswriters and broadcasters. A near-capacity crowd of 17,678 roared its approval as Kentucky made it a sweep of its two-game series with Tennessee, having beaten its rival to the south 132-105 at Nashville March 23.

Issel, millionaire prize of the Kentucky Colonels, topped all scorers with 38 points and hauled down nine rebounds.

McDowell Joins K-State Staff

MANHATTAN, Kan. (UPI)—Gene McDowell, assistant football coach at Florida State, has joined head coach Vince Gibson's staff at Kansas State, it was announced Monday.

McDowell, 29, replaces Dean Pryor, who resigned to become head football coach at South Dakota State a week ago.

McDowell, a three-year letterman at Florida State, was team captain and most valuable player in 1963. After a tour with the Army, he joined the Florida State staff as a graduate assistant in 1965.

He was head freshman coach and director of recruiting when he left. McDowell will work primarily with the varsity offense and serve as coordinator of the freshman team at Kansas State.

Petty Vaults To First Place In NASCAR Rankings

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (UPI)—Plymouth ace Richard Petty used a fifth place finish in Sunday's Atlanta 500 to vault into first place in the latest NASCAR grand national point standings released Monday.

Petty, of Randleman, N.C., has 655 points, while Bobby Allison of Hueytown, Ala., who won the Atlanta race in his Dodge, has climbed into second place with 629.

Dave Marcis of West Salem, Wis., dropped from first to third place with 579 points after finishing 31st at Atlanta.

Pete Hamilton of Dedham, Mass., who won the Daytona 500 in a Plymouth, remains the money leader with $53,940 after earning $8,554 with a third place finish at Atlanta.

Allison is second in money earnings with $37,000 and Petty third with $28,565.

Pitchers Step Up Pace As New Season Opens Next Week

By ANDREW WILLIAMS MOSCOW (UPI) — Idaho football coach Y.C. McNease can be pardoned for wearing a tearful countenance when he reflects that only two starters are back from the 1969 gridiron team that compiled a dismal 2-8 record.

Gone are 16 seniors, including Jerry Hendren, who was the nation's leading pass receiver last year and who shattered every school aerial mark in the book in three years at Idaho.

But when this year's roster includes a quarterback who led the nation in passing the four weeks he was healthy last year and a junior college transfer who broke O. J. Simpson's two-year rushing mark, it is just possible the red in McNease's eyes comes from crocodile tears.

Football 1970 comes to the University of Idaho campus next Monday when an expected 75 football hopefuls report for spring practice.

Counting only seven seniors among his ranks, McNease will have the youngest team he has fielded in three years at Idaho. But he has several prospects from the freshman team and a bountiful catch of junior college transfers to fill the depleted ranks.

The outstanding returnee from last year's team is quarterback Steve Olson, who led the Vandals' offense and the nation with his passing attack until a back ailment laid him low. Olson underwent an operation last winter and has been given the green light to suit up for spring practice.

The other key element in this year's offense is Fred Riley, a running back from Beaumont, Tex., who in two years at Yuba Junior College in California, rushed for 1,525 yards and 27 touchdowns to top O. J. Simpson's junior college record.

Riley is expected to add something the Vandals have long needed — a top rusher — but McNease is being coy on whether the addition will tempt him to change his wide-open passing offense, a trademark at Idaho in recent years.

"With the advent of Riley's speed, it would improve our running attack and with the threat of an improved running attack, it will open up our ability to throw the pass more," McNease said.

The receiving chores this year are expected to be handled primarily by Jack Goddard, who understudied Hendren last year. Promising sophomores at the end positions include Curby Cook, Kelly Cooke and Kelly Courage.

The line has veteran starters Brock Jackley returning as defensive tackle and Andy Kupp as his offensive counterpart. Also returning are Tim Reese, Ron Linehan and Tom Jarman, and McNease said he expects to see service in the line from sophomore Darrell Burchfield.

The Vandals have scheduled practices on Mondays, Wednesdays and Saturdays starting April 6 and culminating May 9 with the traditional intra-squad game.

Irish Dump U.S. Squad In Soccer

DUBLIN, Ireland (UPI)—Edinburgh University of Scotland held off a surprisingly strong Southern Illinois University squad Monday to beat the Americans, 3-1, in the International Universities soccer tournament.

The tournament is sponsored by University College Dublin to celebrate its 75th anniversary. Once again the American students from Edwardsville, Ill., surprised the crowd with their skillful ball control but they were unable to match the urgency and directness of the Scots.

Jim Sloppy passing especially, in midfield, also contributed to their defeat.

John Carenza, John Dienowski and center half Fazzi were the losers' outstanding players.

Edinburgh jumped into an early lead when Dunnet scored a lucky goal and they held their advantage until half time.

Trevino Now Leading PGA Money Winner

NEW YORK (UPI)—Lee Trevino, who scored his second victory of the year in the National Airlines Open Sunday, has taken over as the leading money winner on the Professional Golfers' Association tour. Trevino won the Tucson Open six weeks ago and added $40,000 by winning a sudden death playoff with Bob Menne on Sunday to run his earnings to $77,638.

Dick Lotz was next with $64,625, followed by Bob Lunn ($55,230), Bruce Devlin ($47,119), Bob Stanton ($37,541), Tony Jacklin ($35,101), Mike Hill ($34,819), Dale Douglass ($34,720), Pete Brown ($33,672) and Ron Cerrudo ($32,172).

Trevino, who has competed in 11 tournaments this year, also leads the PGA point standings with 589.0 points. Lunn is second with 527.4 points, and Lotz is third at 478.5.

Others among the top 10 in the point standings are Cerrudo (431.0), Grier Jones (411.0), Dave Stockton (384.5), Tommy Aaron (379.0), Homero Blancas (374.5), Frank Beard (373.0) and Hale Irwin (365.0).

4 Teams Reach AAU Semi-Final

COLUMBIA, S. C. (UPI)—Host team Columbia Sertoma went ahead with 20 seconds left in the game Monday to nip Jerry's Restaurant of Lexington, Ky. 68-67 in the National AAU basketball championships.

In other second-round games, the Armed Forces All-Stars topped Miller Tire Co. of Little Rock, Ark. 132-60, Howard Payne College beat the Pipers from Lake Charles, La. 72-61, and the Lawrence, Kan., Jaycats trounced Burger Chef of Indianapolis, Ind. 122-82.

Tommy Maddox of North Carolina State connected on a jumper from the right corner with 20 seconds left to give the Sertomas a 67-65 lead. Dennis Berkholz added a Columbia freethrow with seven seconds remaining to put the game out of reach.

Jim Hurley of Transylvania triggered the Lexington attack with 20 points.

Columbia will take on the Lawrence Jaycats and Howard Payne plays the Armed Forces All-Stars Tuesday in the semi-final round.

The Armed Forces All-Stars placed seven men in double figures Monday to gain a place in the semifinals.

The All-Stars, defending tournament champions, never lost the lead.

Former Marquette star Bob Wolf topped the All-Star scoring with 26 points followed by Art Wilmore, of the University of San Francisco, with 21 and Mike Redd, of Kentucky Wesleyan, with 18.

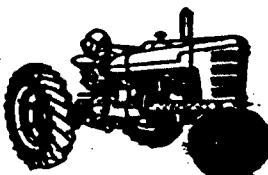

Miller Tire Co. was paced by Terry Garner, former University of Arkansas standout, who hit for 17 points.

Howard Payne College broke open a tight game with eight straight points midway through the final half to take the win over the Pipers from Lake Charles.

Howard Payne, from Brownwood, Tex., was leading by only two points 45-44 when forward Fred Davis started the rally. David Jones poured in the next three baskets, two on fast breaks and one on an assist from Davis, to put the game out of reach.

Davis led the Howard Payne scoring with 22 points followed by Dan McGhee with 20. Howard Payne is the NAIA representative in the tournament.

Kenny Drost paced the Louisiana scoring attack with 23 points.

Some of our readers are kind enough to send us bridge hands from time to time. Most of these concern very unusual holdings, such as nine-card suits. While very interesting, these are not suitable for the column, since they don't occur often enough in actual play to enable us to tell how to bid them.

Today's hand, played at the Bremerton Bridge Club by Leonard Wisby of Silver-oak, Wash., is perfect for our purposes. It teaches points in both bidding and play.

West gained nothing by his double of three spades and it gave North a chance to show that his club raise had been sound. With a doubtful raise, North would simply have passed the double.

This was enough for Leonard. He jumped to six clubs. West opened the ace of spades and Leonard applied the C-and-H-of-our-code word ARCH to plan his play. His count of losers showed a sure heart loser and possible diamond loser.

The answer to "How can I make this hand?" became apparent after a little study and he proceeded to put his plan into operation.

He drew trumps with two leads and was delighted to find that they broke 2-1. All three in one hand would have meant trouble, even if he did pick up the queen. Then he played the ace-king and another heart.

When each opponent followed to the third round of hearts, he had no need to try the diamond finesse, since he was able to discard dummy's third diamond on his good heart.

They must play pretty good bridge in Bremerton. He didn't get a top score because several others bid and made the slam.

IN THE NEXT 10 YEARS, predicts our chief prognosticator, you will be able to telephone any place in the world for one dollar... Did I tell you people get fewer colds in July than in any other month of the year? The statisticians say a car's back seats are three times safer than a car's front seats.

KISSING ISN'T EVERYTHING. In some parts of Africa, our love and war man, points out, the amorous fellow expresses his affection by rubbing his ladyfriend on her right ear... Is there still such a thing as a nervous breakdown? Must be. A recent medical journal said the British suffer approximately five times as many nervous breakdowns as does the U.S. citizenry.

TALENT - If a youngster possesses absolute pitch, it's a certainty said prodigy can become a good musician. Yet there is no evidence that shows up among the young to indicate they definitely can become good painters or good writers. In the arts, only the talent for musicianship reveals itself at an early age, positively.

CUSTOMER SERVICE - Q. "Who was the most famous actress in Shakespeare's time?" A. Won't bite on that one, sir. There were no actresses in Shakespeare's time. Men and boys did their thing in those roles of women. How would you like to see Flip Wilson do Ophelia? Might be worth the price of admission, what? Q. "Is there such a thing as a psychosomatic cold?" A. All I know is people with real low salaries get far more colds than people with real high salaries.

SUPPOSE YOU OUGHT NOT GO another day without knowing you swallow on the average 48 times while eating an ordinary lunch in 10 minutes... Girls get more cavities than boys. Even so, women of retirement age usually have more teeth left than their contemporary gentlemen friends. Why is that? ... Although you may get arrested for gambling, odds now run 20 to 1 you won't wind up in jail for it. Average fine is $120. Or so say the statisticians.

DRINKERS - Am asked if the average Frenchman drinks more liquor than the average Italian. If you count wine, he does. Far more. A World Health outfit contends the French per capita drink 15 times as much alcoholic beverage as do the Italians. Incidentally, those Frenchmen are said to drink 50 times as much as the British, but only twice as much as the U.S. citizenry.

Your questions and comments are welcomed and will be used in PASS IT ON wherever possible. Address letters to L.M. Boyd, P.O. Box 3760, Santa Monica, Calif. 90403. ((c) 1970, McNaught Syndicate, Inc.)

SPACE:

Youth Downgrades Its Value for U.S.

America's space flights may be in for a bad trip. This is the conclusion of a leading scientist at the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) after hearing about President Nixon's budget-trimming orders.

He said: "The future really looks bleak. I'm afraid all our plans are going to have to be reconsidered—and a lot of hopes dashed."

His feelings are confirmed by the latest National Gilbert Youth Poll in a national survey.

Originally, the two missions in 1969, Nos. 11 and 12, were to have been followed by eight more manned landings, concluding with Apollo 20 in 1972.

However, budgetary considerations have a ready forced the last flight (No. 20) to be canceled and the rest of the flights to be stretched out for an additional two years to 1974.

Many space officials are fearful that many other space projects—including a landing on Mars within the next 10 or 20 years—are in jeopardy.

In order to determine the reaction of young Americans to the space program, The National Gilbert Youth Poll surveyed over 5,000 young people (ages 14-25) in high school, college and out-of-school across the country.

When asked whether present financial allocations for the space program should be increased, maintained at their current level, or decreased, almost two-thirds of the nation's youths favored reductions, one-quarter thought they should stay at their present level, and only slightly more than eight per cent thought they should be increased.

Still more unpromising was the fact that less than half of the respondents felt that the program had any importance at all.

Female respondents, in what may very well be a manifestation of the "purse-string" syndrome, were noticeably more turned off on the space program. They outpaced their male counterparts in advocating budget cuts and in general viewed with a singular lack of appreciation any of man's extraterritorial activities.

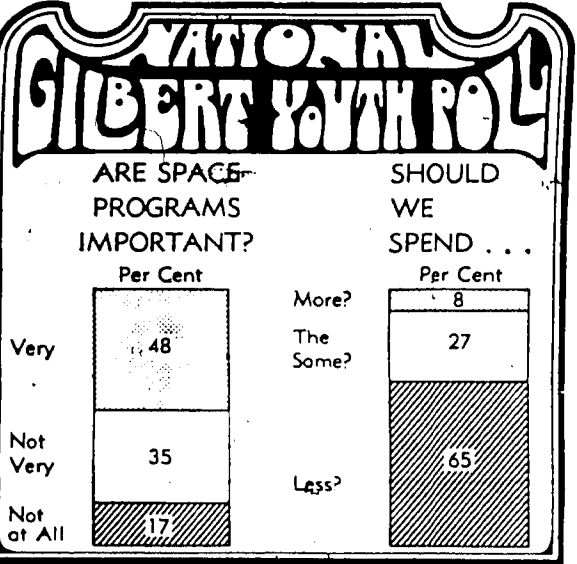

Older respondents (22 and over) displayed a more benign attitude toward the space program—but hardly enough to overcome the general indifference. Regionally, southern respondents led the other parts of the country in considering the space program important but lagged behind when it came to endorsing increased financial allocations.

Those who favored budget cuts in the space program allocations were asked what they would rather see the money used for. More than half felt that the money saved should go to various poverty programs. Another large segment (15 per cent) favored increased assistance to educational programs, and 29 per cent suggested public assistance programs such as urban renewal, better housing, and attacks on other social ills in the United States.

The opinions of the rest of those who favored budget cuts in the space program splintered into recommendations for assistance to job training, medical research, antipollution programs, ending the war in Vietnam and lowering taxes.

The findings of the Gilbert National Probability Sample, which surveys thousands of young people across the country, are projectable to the entire population of the nation within that age group.
